Woldlime™

Enhance your soil pH with Woldlime

Agricultural lime is used to adjust the pH of soil to provide improved growing conditions, thus improving crop yields.

Woldlime™ Agricultural Lime CaCO_3 is a 'softer' rock, which is more readily broken down and absorbed into the soil solution.

Major benefits include:

Low-cost, high-value solution

Offers flexible delivery methods to suit field access points.

Increased productive potential

Enhance growing conditions, to improve overall crop profitability and yields of arable land

Improved soil structure

Releases soil nutrients, assisting fertilisers and manure

Adjusts the pH of soil to provide improved growing conditions

Typical Neutralising Values vary between 48 – 54% NV.

Aggregates

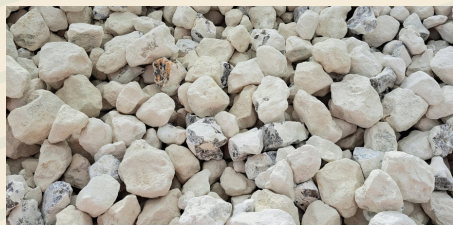

Aggregates for the foundation of your farm

Aggregates are essential for more than just construction — they play a crucial role in modern farming too.

Here's how aggregates can benefit your farm:

- Soil Stabilisation: Keep your fields productive with stable, well-drained soil.
- Drainage Works: Ensure effective water management and prevent flooding.
- Livestock Shed Base: Provide solid, durable bases for your livestock structures.
- Road Structures: Build sturdy farm roads that stand up to heavy machinery.
- Menage Construction: Create safe and reliable surfaces for horses and outdoor arenas.

Use aggregates to strengthen your farm from the ground up.
